Greetings

Since its founding in 1925, the Japan Association of Athletics Federations (JAAF) has endeavored to build the foundation for the world of athletics in Japan with the understanding and support of the many people involved.

The 90-year history that we have built up owes to the understanding and cooperation of all parties involved, and I would once again like to express our gratitude to you all.

We shall approach our endeavors with even greater focus as we near our 100th anniversary.

In the year before last, the JAAF published the “JAAF VISION 2017”, which indicates the future direction we should aim for in order to achieve the sustained development of the world of athletics in Japan.

This document highlights our two missions of improving international competitiveness and realizing “Wellness Athletics”, and our aim to grow without restricting just on the roles we have fulfilled to date.

In addition to promoting a variety of measures to enable athletes to fully maximize and showcase their talents on the world stage, the JAAF engages in efforts to provide platform for sports and create opportunities for people to participate in sports, by hosting various competitions and training courses, and undertaking activities such as coach training, etc.

Furthermore, we are working to reinforce compliance and governance, and are working in closer collaboration with local and other related organizations, beginning with the member associations and affiliated organizations that form the foundations of the world of athletics in Japan, walking hand-in-hand with many of the parties involved, to not only promote sports, but also to continue proactive efforts towards environmental conservation and social contribution.

Building Talent Development Systems

In order to keep as many athletes as possible competing in athletics field for as long as possible, JAAF was built systems that will allow us to discover and develop athletes on a one-to-one basis.

- Discovery in the junior high and high school generations
The world trend shows that many of the athletes tend to settle on the specific events after junior high or high school, and then...
- No labelling of specific talents (Formation of talent pools)
As our basic standard for the discovery of talent, we do not fixate on records or the results of competitions. By establishing a variety of indices and having our talent-managers travel throughout Japan to discover high potential athletes with their own eyes, we will form a pool of talented athletes possessing a wide variety of abilities.
- Switching events to bring talent to maturity (Talent transfer)
Participation in a variety of events regardless of specialty, allows each athletes to identify the optimum events for maximizing their potential, and brings them one step closer to the world stage.

"Diamond Athlete Program"

Aimed at next generation athletes who can be expected to perform in international competitions, JAAF prepares programs that prioritize the individual, and these programs provide multifaceted support for the improvement of competitiveness.

- ◆ Leadership
- ◆ Language training
- ◆ Overseas training camp/ touring support
- ◆ Nutritional support
- ◆ Medical and scientific evaluation/physical support
- ◆ Psychological support
- ◆ Media training
- ◆ Invite overseas coaches

*11 approved athletes in the 5th term (2018-2019).

Scientific investigation/research into athletics

JAAF implements scientific investigation/ research activities at competitions and training camps, and feed back the results to the athletes and coaches. The results are also summarized in publications such as the "Research bulletin in athletics".

Research bulletin in athletics

Promotion of anti-doping activities and medical support for elite athletes

JAAF provides conditioning checks and medical support with a focus on athletes who represent Japan. The organization also promotes enlightenment activities on anti-doping, and provides information for athletes and coaches through publications such as the "Anti-3D" magazine.

Anti-3D

Competing together, lifting each other

The JAAF annually hosts 35 competitions, and officially recognizes about 4,000 other competitions in Japan. Many talented athletes meet and compete at these competitions, and work to learn from and improve each other's competitiveness.

Interpretation of IAAF Competition Rules, Technical Officials Educational Program and Ratification of Records

Because the JAAF is responsible for interpretation of the IAAF Competition Rules, it annually publishes the Rule Book in Japanese and also Technical Officials Handbook. In addition, JAAF has own national technical officials certification system and undertakes educational program. There are approximately 40,000 certified technical officials who are serving at more than 4000 approved competitions throughout Japan. The JAAF is also responsible for recognition of performances and also ratification of the Records.

Bringing Sports to Everyone

As well as the development of athletes who will aim for the world stage, the training of coaches who support these athletes, and popularization activities to expand the reach of athletics, are also important missions for the JAAF. The raising of overall standards in athletics will lead to the lights that will shine in the future.

Athletes' Development

In line with competitor development guidelines, the JAAF promotes competitor development and coach training for each age group and development stage, to allow as many competitors as possible to enjoy athletics for as long as possible, and to tie this in to the development of top athletes.

► Coach Training

Beginning with official JAAF coach and official JAAF junior coach training courses, the JAAF hosts coaching clinics and coach training courses throughout the year, and undertakes the training and development of coaches in line with competitor development guidelines.

► Popularization Activities

The JAAF will implement activities for the development of “body literacy” during the junior stages, and “combined events” in the “Nissin Cup” National Elementary School Championships, with an emphasis on the enjoyment of athletics, host U13/ U16 clinic projects, and implement a “Kids Decathlon Challenge” at the major competitions.
